INTEGRATING ARTS INTO THE CLASSROOM Workshops—Fall 2009

Poetry and Power Word

Monday, October 5, 5:30-7:30 pm

Arts 342, Cal State San Marcos

Join poet and artist Roxanne Kilbourne to explore the world of poetry and literacy through power words, rhyme, and more. Experience the power that writing and reciting can provide.

Seeing More with Theatre

Monday, October 19, 5:30-7:30 pm

Arts 342, Cal State San Marcos

We will explore some ways that theatre can be used by teachers and students to sharpen their observation skills and engage with each other and with the subject matter in a more holistic manner. The session will involve theatre games that engage the mind, body, and emotion. Presented by theater specialist Radhika Rao.

A Puppetry Sampler

Monday, November 2, 5:30-7:30 pm

Arts 342, Cal State San Marcos

An introduction for those new to puppetry, as well as intriguing ideas for those already involved and addicted to this magical art form. Aimed especially at teachers and student teachers, participants will experiment with an exciting array of hands-on activities matched to the curriculum and VAPA standards, and will come away from the workshop with a variety of useful tips and techniques that excite involvement, foster collaborative endeavor and build self esteem. Taught by Lynne Jennings, San Diego Guild of Puppetry.

Your Students Are Superheroes!

Monday, November 16, 5:30-7:30 pm

Arts 342, Cal State San Marcos

Join theater artist Lisa Berger to learn how to help kids explore and create their own super hero personas. The workshop will consider costume, movement, gesture and expression, storyboarding, and will culminate in learning to make quick and easy movies that kids (and you!) will love.

Center ARTES: About Us

Center ARTES at CSU San Marcos is committed to restoring arts education to San Diego County schools. Our primary initiatives include providing access to the arts for students, professional development for educators, strategic planning for districts, and leadership and state-wide advocacy on important arts education issues. Through partnerships with schools, districts, artists, and arts institutions, we connect educators with tools, resources, and personnel to seamlessly integrate the arts into their classrooms, exposing diverse student bodies to a rich, comprehensive arts education while improving student learning across the curriculum.
